

Gerald Marcus
New Work
March 28 – April 22, 2023
Reception: Thursday, March 30, 5-8 PM

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Prince Street Gallery announces an exhibition of new work by Gerald Marcus to run March 28 to April 22, 2023. The gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday, 11:00 AM-6:00 PM. The opening reception will be March 30, 5-8 PM.

The exhibition will consist of landscapes of the Adirondack Mountains in upstate New York as well as figure compositions. The show will include oils, watercolors and etchings.

Marcus's work portrays the distant vistas and sense of big space that are typical of mountain landscapes, and as a counterpoint, intimate forest interiors, streams and ponds that emphasize a pastoral, elegiac beauty. He works outdoors, directly from the motif, as well as in the studio. Marcus has shown his work in many one-man shows and group shows in New York City and nationally including, The National Academy of Design, The International Print Center of New York, The Lancaster Museum of Art, the Hunterdon Museum of Art, The Morris Museum of Art, The Hollar Society Prague, Smith College, The City University of New York, Long Island University and Purdue University. He is a former president of the Society of American Graphic Artists.

Gallery Hours: Tues—Sat, 11-6 PM
